

Criteria for the appointment of clinical associate professors at Health, Aarhus University

The criteria apply for clinical associate professor appointments at Health. The assessment of each applicant should be based on these criteria guided by the material submitted by the applicant including the application, status information, teaching portfolio and CV. Specific qualification requirements must be stated in the job advertisement. Reference is also made to the templates "Template for applicant - clinical associate professor (general information)" and "Template for assessment – clinical associate professor".

Research activities

In the case of clinical associate professors, there are no specific requirements for peer-reviewed publications of high international standard within the area, but it is generally expected that applicants carry out independent research.

Scientific advice

clinical associate professors are expected to have a certain degree of experience of assignment supervision of students and supervision of PhD students, as well as of participation in assessment committees for the awarding of PhD degrees.

Teaching and course activities

In the case of clinical associate professors, some degree of experience with teaching at Bachelor's and/or Master's level is expected, including being able to independently prepare and conduct teaching within the medical/academic specialty in question.