

Food and nutrition network at Health

PROGRAM for opening workshop

20th november 2019, from 14-16

Steno Diabetes Center Aarhus, Hedeager 3, 2. sal, 8200 Aarhus N

- 14.00 Welcome Niels Jessen and Lene Baad-Hansen, chairmen of the steering committee
- The importance of teeth, mouth and jaws on nutrition Lene Baad-Hansen, Associate professor and Deputy head for research and talent at Department of Dentistry and Oral Health
- Nutritional effects on disease – Knowledge from human catabolic disease models Maike Mose, Ph.D. student, Department of Clinical Medicine
- The use of metabolomics to uncover and understand the function of metabolites Mogens Johannsen, Professor, Department of Forensic Medicine
- The role of sense of smell and taste Alexander Fjældstad, Post.doc., Flavour Institute and Regional Hospital West Jutland
- 14.50 Break
- 15.15 Dairy products and development of type 2 diabetes – should we choose yoghurt or milk, light or full fat? Daniel Borch Ibsen, Ph.D. student, Department of Public Health
- Protein in perspective to health and performance Mette Hansen, Associate professor, Department of Public Health – Sports science
- Coffee and metabolic health - focus on the bioactive compound cafestol Søren Gregersen, Associate professor, MD, PhD, Steno Diabetes Center Aarhus
- Preclinical studies on diet and depression Anders Abildgaard, MD, PhD, Department of Clinical Medicine – Translational Neuropsychiatric Unit
- Boosting NAD levels in skeletal muscle through dietary supplements Jonas Brorson Jensen, PhD student, Department of Biomedicine
- 16.00 Thank you and goodbye