
DECLARATION OF IMPARTIALITY FOR MEMBERS OF ASSESSMENT COMMITTEES

AT AARHUS UNIVERSITY, HEALTH

The rules of the Danish Public Administration Act regarding disqualification apply to employees at Aarhus University, Health and others who participate in tasks for Aarhus University, Health.

As a member of an assessment committee at Health you must – before the work of the committee begins – sign and return this declaration of impartiality to the department.

As a member of the committee, you have a duty to immediately notify the chair if there are circumstances that may lead to your own or another member's disqualification, unless it is completely apparent that the matters in question are of no importance to the assessment.

A member may be disqualified if:

- That person has a personal or financial interest in the outcome.
- That person's relatives or cohabitant has a personal or financial interest in the outcome.
- That person has a close affiliation with a company, association or the like with a special interest in the outcome, or that other circumstances exist which may cast doubt on that person's impartiality, including for example close friendship or ascertainable enmity.
- That person is or has been involved in joint publications or projects with one of the applicants.

Co-authorship does not automatically entail disqualification. The crucial factor for the assessment is the scope of the co-authorship, the date of publication and the weighting of the work in question in relation to the assessment.

At Health, members of a committee may only have joint publications and projects with applicants to a very limited extent and may only in exceptional cases have had joint publications within the past five years. Ineligibility may result in the work of the assessment committee be adjudged to be invalid.

Pursuant to Health's "Guidelines for assessment committees" please answer the questions on the next page.
